Grayson Plane In Second False Start

WOMAN FLYER AND AIDES, IN 'DAWN,' RETURN TO OLD ORCHARD

Ill Luck Again Marks Attempted Hop to Denmark.

ALIGHT ON WATER
Too Much of Load of Gasoline Blamed for Failure.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 22.—Shortly after taking off early today on an attempted non-stop flight to Copenhagen in her plane, "The Dawn," Mrs. Frances Grayson returned to the starting point.

"We just could not make her rise," was Mrs. Grayson's explanation of her second false start across the ocean.

Couldn't Make Plane Rise.
Shortly after the plane containing Mrs. Grayson, Wilmer Stultz, her pilot, and Bruce Goldsborough, navigator, had been lost to sight, it again appeared, flying low on the water.

It headed straight for the beach and when a little off shore, settled on the water and began circling about.

Stultz then let down his landing gear and brought "The Dawn" back into the hangar. Climbing out of the plane, Mrs. Grayson said:

"We were going down wind all the time and we just could not make her rise. I believe we had too much of a load; you see, we had 921 gallons of gasoline aboard. This is more than we've ever carried."

Mrs. Grayson added that they had reached a point about two miles beyond the Cape Elizabeth lightship when they noticed that "The Dawn" would not climb. They then decided not to take the risk of going further.

Craft Skims Water.
Most of the way out to the Cape Elizabeth lightship and back "The Dawn" skims the water.

Today

Aboard the Train.

Infantile Paralysis.

What Will America Be.

By ARTHUR BRISANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

THIS is written on "The Chief," one of the many splendidly equipped trains that carry passengers between the two oceans in perfect comfort.

How long will such trains carry the passengers? Railroad men that think would have asked themselves that question could they have seen Will Rogers, traveling as an air passenger, United States mail, roaring over and past the "fast" express, leaving them in the distance as the first locomotive left the old stage coaches.

ROGERS paid $406 "postage" on himself from Los Angeles to New York. When the fast express had got well under way, and passengers had settled down for their four nights and a little more than four days coast-to-coast trip, Rogers was in Chicago. When they had gone through luncheon and dinner on their second day Rogers was in New York. By the time they reached New York he was back in California and remember that he was flying slowly, less than 100 miles an hour. Planes already built go 300 miles an hour. Men will soon make the trip from New York to San Francisco between breakfast and dinner time, as a matter of course.

When locomotives came, aged doctors said, "nothing will ever take the place of the stage coach for REAL, RELIABLE TRAVEL."

The first locomotive that made from 20 to 25 miles an hour killed the stage coach. What will the 300-mile-an-hour airplane do to long-distance railroad passenger traffic?

Ohioan Will Resign as Soon as President Coolidge Can Conveniently Choose Successor.

AGE AND ILL HEALTH CAUSES

Diplomat Has Undergone Two Operations Since His Return From Paris in Mid-Summer.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
(Copyright by the International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France at the start of the World war, and who returned to Paris in 1921, has signified to President Coolidge his desire to be relieved of his post as soon as the administration can conveniently choose his successor, it was learned here today.

Advancing years and ill health have been ascribed as the causes. Ambassador Herrick returned from France in mid-summer and since that time has undergone two operations. His recovery has been slow, and his general condition is such that he has yielded to the advice of friends and relatives that he should give up his post. He recently passed his 73rd birthday.

Dwight Davis Mentioned.
No announcement has been made of the ambassador's decision and it is probable that none will be made until Washington is ready to announce at the same time his successor. Officially Ambassador Herrick is recuperating from an illness and expects to resume his post some time before the end of the year, but it is understood that if he returned to France at all it will only be to wind up his affairs there.

There is no dearth of candidates for the Paris embassy, which next to London, is considered the prize post in the American diplomatic service. It is partly for this reason that Ambassador Herrick's contemplated retirement is being kept as quiet as possible. President Coolidge does not wish to be embarrassed by a general scramble for the post.

One of the leading candidates, however, is now a member of the cabinet—Dwight W. Davis, secretary of war. Representations in Secretary Davis' behalf have already been made to the White House. Although with what success has not been determined.

Davis is said to have long desired a diplomatic post. He is independently wealthy, and is considered "available."

HOME ECONOMICS EXPERT IS READY FOR OPENING OF REVIEW-TRIBUNE COOKING SCHOOL TUESDAY

The final steps were taken today in completing all arrangements for East Liverpool's big venture of a Free Cooking School for the housekeepers of the city. Mrs. Mary Brown-Lewers, nationally famous cooking and home economics expert, has made her final selections from the stores and shops of this city. The last string upon has been selected and from the big electrical refrigerator to the smallest sauce pan, the kitchen is ready for the demonstrations which begin next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be given every day at the same hour through Friday.

The lecturer hopes they will do that very thing. She is anxious that every woman who comes to the school will see every device in the kitchen. She wants every woman who will occupy a seat in the auditorium to hear every word of every lecture and then to join in the question and answer forum which follows the lectures.

The Review-Tribune has planned a program of music to open each day's school, and Mrs. Lewers' demonstrations are so interesting that every woman will want to be present at every session. She has promised to take up the always interesting topic of table service and home entertaining as well as new phrases of cookery, and a discussion of labor and time saving devices. One session will be of especial interest to the women who are overweight and those who are underweight. The lecturer also has some good news for the women who have finicky eaters at their family table and for those who have to cater to a member of the family who insists on following new food fads.

Mrs. Lewers is not only a famous lecturer on subjects of interest to every housekeeper but she has had years of experience in keeping her own home and she will pass along to her audiences the many short cuts and new ideas worked out in her own kitchen as well as the latest theories on cookery and homemaking which the professional home economics women stress.

She is a strong believer in the home budget. She says that in budgeting...

'THE DROP KICK' AT AMERICAN

Barthelmess and College Stars in Katharine Brush Picture.

Patrons of the American theatre, beginning Monday, will have an opportunity to see the motion picture debut of the Ten National College Stars in support of Richard Barthelmess in "The Drop Kick," which Ray Rockett produced for First National.

These ten boys were selected by First National officials after a nationwide search for ten college men who represented the finest in American young manhood. The search was conducted in cooperation with College Humor Magazine and attracted a great deal of attention throughout the country.

Two units conducted this quest, each composed of a manager, a motion camera man and a makeup artist. More than 28,000 miles were traversed by both these units—36 universities and colleges were visited, and 12,500 students were interviewed, from whom were chosen the ten men appearing in "The Drop Kick."

The Ten National College Stars selected were John Westwood, Princeton; Stuart Knox, Yale; Edward Karges, Northwestern; Thomas Den-ton, Michigan; Leland S. Wilcox, Michigan; D. C. Cassidy, Georgia Tech; John Morris, Purdue; John Stambaugh, Chicago, and Richard Clendenin, California.

"The Drop Kick" is a story of college life from a story by Katharine Brush, author of "Glitter," which ran in College Humor and was published as a sensational novel. It was admitted to the screen by Adela Rogers St. John and was scenarized by Win-fred Dunn. It was directed by Mil-lard Webb and was photographed by Arthur Edson.

An exceptional cast supports Richard Barthelmess, including Barbara Kent in the feminine lead, Dorothy Rowler, Alberta Vaughn, Eugene Strong, Brooks Benedict, James Brad-bury, Jr., Hedda Hopper, George Pearce, Mayme Kelso and others. Dick Hyland, famous Stanford football star, acted as technical adviser.

ANNA NILSSON
HERE MONDAY

Star Appears in "Lone-some Ladies," at Strand.

The greatest domestic problem in the world is for wives to avert lone-ness.

Anna Q. Nilsson, featured player in "Lonesome Ladies," the First National Picture coming to the Strand theatre Monday and Tuesday, is sure of it.

"If women in the home could find enough interesting things to do while their husbands worked," says she, "the great army of divorce-seekers each year would be greatly reduced in number."

"Keep your housework from becoming routine," is her advice to wives. "Keep changing the settings in your home, move pictures here and there, put the divan in another corner of the living room—all that sort of thing—it keeps alive the interest in domesticity."

"When you allow your work to become routine, then you cease to think about it and concentrate upon far-off fields which frequently make the tame home-life distasteful. Keep interested in your home while you are doing your work. Then forget about the house in pursuit of other things, after the labor is over."

DUCO AVAILABLE FOR HOME USE

It sometimes happens that a trade name secures such widespread popularity that it is accepted by many people as a general term for all articles of a similar kind.

Mr. Burbick of the Watson Hardware company pointed to Duco as a typical example. Duco has become well known during the last few years as a finish on automobiles, furniture and many other articles. Some people regard Duco as a general term for this type of finish. This is incorrect. Duco is a specific product made only by the du Pont Company.

Duco is now available for brush application by the home owner or the automobile owner. It is very easy to use, dries quickly and produces a smooth, hard, long-wearing surface which accounts for its rapid increase in popularity during the short time it has been on the market. Mr. Burbick said that his past year's business on Duco has been very satisfactory, in fact, Duco has brought many people into the store and interested many in painting who have never used a paint brush.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to my friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown me during my bereavement in the death of my wife, Mrs. Minnie Swaney.

Especially do I thank Rev. Dimitt and singers, all who sent the beautiful flowers and those who so kindly donated the use of their cars.

The ANCHOR HOT BLASTIs Different From Others

The Anchor Hot Blast saves one-third or more in fuel over any lower-draft or oak air-tight type of heater of the same size; it holds fire for 36 hours, and will save 25% in fuel over any other hot-blast stove on the market. A lifetime of service is guaranteed by the sectional inner linings and the air space which insures uniform radiation from top to bottom of the stove body.

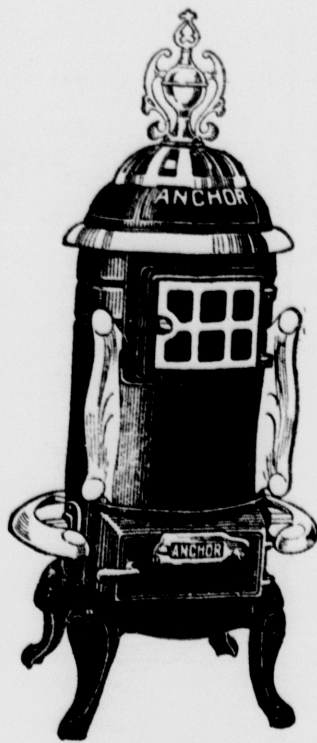

Coal burned in the ordinary lower draft heater burns at the bottom and all of the gases escaping from the coal on top are lost up the chimney. So when you see smoke pouring out of your chimney it means that fuel is being wasted.

By permitting just the right amount of pre-heated air to enter the Anchor Hot Blast fire-box through the hot-blast tube, all these gases which otherwise would be lost are completely burned, thereby insuring the fullest heating result.

By a simple regulation of the main draft damper in the ash-door, the hot-blast slide damper at top, and the check damper located in the reversible smoke collar, the fire is instantly controlled to give just the amount of heat desired.

Study this hot-blast system of combustion and the design and construction of the Anchor Hot Blast and you will see why it is superior to any other heating stove on the market.

In point of looks, service and economy, the Anchor Hot Blast represents the most in value for the least in price.

Why Chevrolet Performance is Thrilling Millions!

Never before was a low-priced car so delightful to drive as today's Chevrolet!

Fast get-away... easy, smooth operation... high speed roadability... unflinching power... and flashy acceleration——exactly the type of performance that everyone wants in an automobile today!

And the source of this matchless performance is the Chevrolet valve-in-head motor, a motor that has established a world-wide reputation for its remarkable power, dependability and economy.

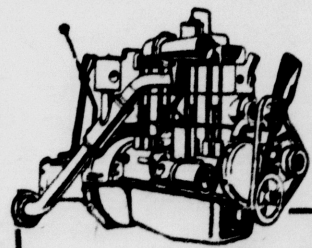

In addition, there is all the finger-tip steering, all the positive braking and effortless gear shifting that have made Chevrolet so decidedly popular for congested traffic.

And never before was a low-priced car so comfortable—for Chevrolet springs are 88% as long as the wheel base... and built of chrome vanadium steel!

Come in! Learn what a feeling of confidence it gives you to drive a car that is powered for every need... that is smooth and quiet at every speed... that responds to the slightest pressure on the steering wheel.

Then you'll know why millions have acclaimed today's Chevrolet as the finest performer in the low-price field!

The Chevrolet valve-in-head motor now possesses such modern improvements as AC air cleaner, AC oil filter, improved oil pump, chrome plated piston pins and Delco-Remy starting, lighting and ignition—features that make this remarkable power plant even more efficient than ever before.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1927.

Last Chance to Register

The deadline for registration in East Liverpool, only enrollment city in Columbiana county, for the November 8 election, when municipal and township officers, municipal court clerk and board of education members will be elected as well as judgment passed upon city and state issues, is 10 o'clock tonight.

Persons who failed to register for the presidential election in 1924 or a subsequent balloting, must qualify today in order to safeguard their right of suffrage next month. This applies to new voters as well as others.

And, too, if an elector has moved since the August primaries, he must apply for a transfer to his new precinct in order to vote at the fall election.

Registrars were on duty from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and will return to the precinct places at 5 o'clock for a five-hour turn.

Failure to enroll today means disfranchisement.

Unequal Pay

It seemed to be agreed during the war, and immediately afterward, that men and women should receive equal pay for equal work. That is to say women, when they do as much work as man, should be paid as much. For a while there was a strong tendency in that direction. Real equality was reached in many factories and many lines of employment. But the inveterate tendency to inequality, with the discrimination against the woman, has set in again.

The National Industrial Conference board, canvassing employees in 26 different types of industry in June of the present year, found that the average weekly earnings of skilled males was $31.48, of unskilled males $24.49 and females, skilled and unskilled together, only $17.37.

Many thoughtful people argue, rather plausibly, that compensation of the two sexes should not be determined by the same economic principle—that it is better to have some economic discrimination against women, making it harder for them to earn their living independently, so they will be satisfied to marry and rear families. But however that may be, the figures given above suggest that, if the women concerned are really doing men's work as well as the men do it, there is too much discrimination.

Honking Pedestrians

It is reported that pedestrians in Southampton, England are carrying walking sticks to which small horns are attached. These are honked at the curb to let motorists know a pedestrian is about to cross a street.

That may work in Southampton. We'd hate to see the custom introduced here. With all due regard for pedestrians, who surely have a right to cross streets now and then, we still believe they could do so more safely and with less confusion simply by heeding the same traffic signals and courtesies enforced on motorists. By crossing at crosswalks, by proceeding with the correct traffic stream, by maintaining a steady and normal gait, they will find it possible to get to their destinations with few delays and misadventures.

And for those pedestrians who insist on jay-walking and on darting out suddenly, from behind parked cars or other obstructions, a walking-stick horn wouldn't save them, even if they deserved saving.

Fascism and Bolshevism

Fascism, according to Herman Bernstein, has two great boasts:

It boasts that it saved Italy from Bolshevism. That, which, may be true, is "the cause of its success and its main strength." One the other hand:

Fascism boasts that it does not believe in peace.

A third boast might be added: Fascism does not believe in democracy.

It is the first of these three claims that takes in Americans who, visiting Italy, are impressed by its air of order and progress, and have the nerve to come back home praising Mussolini as a great man and a world-savior.

That will prove to be an empty boast in the end, says Bernstein.

"Fascism is really a more serious menace to peace than Bolshevism with all its propaganda. Fascism is playing into the hands of Bolshevism."

"Bolshevism and its experiment in Russia have failed to impress Europe. Fascism, unchecked, will lead Europe to a new catastrophe and thus pave the way for social revolution."

What else can happen when any modern nation, especially a nation with the vigor, intelligence and democratic instincts of Italy, is dominated by one man who makes himself master by violence as the old Caesars did, rules by force, tolerates no political opposition, kills, imprisons or exiles his critics, subverts the constitution, is himself the entire government and is now playing the bully of Europe?

The sober world may yet have to save Europe from Italy, and Italy from anarchy. Too much order always breeds anarchy; the tyranny of one man gives way to the tyranny of the mob.

More irony of fate; Russell Scott, financier, confidence man, murderer and suicide, used to write popular books on "Success."

Mexican revolutions don't matter so much as long as Uncle Sam keeps out of them.

Well, there's one kind of oil conservation, at least—Uncle Sam recovers Teapot Dome, slams the lid shut and sits on the spout.

Mickey (Himself) McGuire—

By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—This is a true story of what happened to Harrison Fisher, the magazine cover illustrator, on a recent jaunt to New York. Mr. Fisher was aroused early by the charming voice of the wife of a motion picture star. It was her celebrated husband's birthday. She was giving a dinner that evening to 15 especially selected friends.

Would Mr. Fisher honor him? He had a very important business matter to be discussed with a magazine editor at dinner but he would. He broke the engagement, salvaged his dinner clothes from his trunk and gave the valet $5 to have them brought back steaming.

The dinner was set for nine o'clock but knowing ways of movie folk Mr. Fisher deposited his gloves, stick and top hat with the hat check girl at 9:20. He walked across the dining room floor in immaculate splendor to the table of the star, banked with roses for 15.

Mr. Fisher approached him with hand extended. The host glanced at him a trifle icily as did the hostess. Thinking he was unrecognized in his sleekly pressed habiliments, he explained: "I'm Harrison Fisher. Congratulations on your birthday."

The star stood and offered his hand a little aloofly. Mr. Fisher gulped, stood on one foot and then the other while a starched collar wilted. Grabbing blindly for some topic, he lit upon the weather and made a highly original observation about that.

No one had as yet indicated his seat so he turned to the hostess with the bright notion he had solved the problem with: "It is difficult to distinguish a guest from a waiter at dinners these days." She apparently did not even catch that on the third bounce.

Then the star spoke and remarked: "It has been a pleasure to see you Mr. Fisher," and extended the hand. The distance from the table to the hat check room seemed to Mr. Fisher like crossing the Mojave desert, but he made it without fainting.

"What is the answer?" I asked Fisher.

"There is no answer," he said, with a deprecatory shrug. "Just movie folks." That was a year ago and to this day there has been no explanation.

headway. A Fifth Avenue luggage shop displays a wardrobe trunk carrying a typewriter which, when opened, rests on a convenient desk arrangement.

And at an agency one may hire a packer for $5 a trunk who—the ad folder states—will pack a trunk so you will find necessary articles as they are needed. Those birds, then, are mind readers.

Coney Island, it is whispered, is worried about its future. The past season has been, in a word, terrible. People use the free beaches but shy at amusement gim-cracks. When they tanked up on nickel beers in the so-called good old days it was great sport to ride the roller coasters, bump-the-bumps, look at yourself in funny mirrors, rush through the cave of winds but cold sober the lure seems pretty stale. Coney must furnish greater thrills, even the shrewdest showmen admit. That is, I suppose they will admit it, I haven't asked them.

The popular-priced dance halls, too, around New York seem to be in a slump. The slim attendance appears bored. A new hot dance is needed.

And dance halls recall a small-town dance I attended about 25 years ago. One of the guests was a loose-eared country boy in a gaudy mail order suit. Before he got up for one dance he pulled out a bottle of cheap perfume, sprinkled himself and turning to me inquired: "Have some, Mister?" And today that same country boy is one of the best dressed men in San Francisco.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Vare and Smith to be Seated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 22.—One thing reasonably certain with respect to the approaching session of congress is that the senate will seat William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith, senators-elect, respectively, from Pennsylvania and Illinois. Whether they will be permitted to retain their seats is another question, but predictions are now being made freely in Washington that once they have been sworn in as senators the two men will never be ousted.

Democratic as well as Republican senate leaders are said to have come to the conclusion that their branch of congress has no constitutional right to exclude a man who presents the credentials of a duly elected senator from a sovereign state. There is no question as to the senate's right to expel a member, but it is pointed out that a legislative body can not expel a man who has never been a member. Hence the tentative decision to seat both Vare and Smith and then take such action as may become necessary with respect to their tenure of office.

That action may be different in the two cases, because of a difference that has developed in the status of the two men, although originally their eligibility to the senate was attacked on the same grounds—the use of too much money in their primary campaigns.

In the case of Smith there is no contention that he is not the duly elected senator from Illinois. He was elected by an overwhelming vote and the legality of his election has never been in doubt. His opponent at the polls is not contesting the election. The procedure in his case, presumably, will be that a senator who does not believe Smith should be permitted to hold a seat in the senate will offer a resolution providing for his expulsion.

That would mean a trial that might be brought to the floor of the senate, for that body has permitted counsel to appear at its bar, although it declined to grant a request for a specification of charges or compulsory process for witnesses. Expulsion requires a two-thirds vote.

A Contest in Vare's Case.

Vare's case differs in that his election is being contested by his Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor in the Wilson cabinet. That contest must be determined by the senate in accordance with precedents which call for an investigation by the committee on privileges and elections, with a report that will be acted upon by the senate itself.

The senate, if it finds that Vare was not legally elected, can unseat him and seat Wilson, and it can do this by a majority vote. Such a majority vote might be mustered if all the Democratic senators and a few of the Progressives or Insurgents stood together, but it is regarded as extremely doubtful that anything of the sort will eventuate. Vare is shown by official election returns to have received sufficient votes to elect him, with many thousands of votes to spare, and for the senate to unseat him and seat Wilson would be to establish a precedent that leading Democrats do not like to contemplate it is said.

Having seated Vare and decided the election contest in his favor, the senate may then expel Vare in proceedings similar to those outlined as possible in Smith's case.

The tacit agreement among what is said to be a controlling number of senators that the senate can not refuse to seat Vare and Smith without doing violence to the Constitution and committing a serious invasion of state rights is entirely apart from the opinions of those senators as to whether or not too much money was expended in behalf of Vare and Smith in their primary campaign. As Senator King, of Utah, one of the Democratic members of the committee that investigated the so-called "slush fund" primaries, has said in a formal statement on the subject:

"Important constitutional questions are involved in the assertion of the power of the senate to exclude a member-elect who has been duly certified as such by the state. These questions vitally affect our dual system of government. To deny the right of a state to select its representatives in the senate would be a fatal impairment of the rights of a sovereign state, and would therefore affect our real form of government."

Senators are all sworn to maintain the Constitution."

What the Constitution Says:

The Constitution says that "the senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof," and that "no person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen."

When a state by the votes of its electors has chosen a senator of the qualifications prescribed, that state, it is contended, is entitled to the participation of that senator in the deliberations of the senate from the day he presents his credentials and is ready to take the oath of office until such time as the senate has decided that his election was not legal or that he has been guilty of conduct or offenses warranting his expulsion.

The Constitution also says that each house of congress "shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members," and "may punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member."

Members of the house of representatives and of the senate have been expelled for treason, for high misdemeanor inconsistent with public duty, for friendship or association with enemies of the government, and for bearing arms against the government.

Advocates of the constitutional right of Vare and Smith to be seated argue that since they present the prescribed certificates of elections from their respective states the senators from other states have no more right to exclude them because they do not approve of what happened in the nominating primaries in Pennsylvania and Illinois than they have to exclude them because they do not approve of the personal characteristics, habits, or political beliefs of the senators-elect.

If it can be shown that Vare and Smith, either or both, were guilty of fraud or corruption in winning their way to the senate, or that fraud or corruption was indulged in by others in order to get Vare and Smith into the senate, then, presumptively, they will have no defenders in the senate and will forfeit their seats.

Admittedly enormous sums of money were spent in the primaries in both Pennsylvania and Illinois, but senators who have studied the evidence gathered by the investigating committee are slow to charge that either Vare or Smith was guilty of fraud or corruption, or violated any law. If votes were purchased in either state, it is said, it was done by indirect means through employing campaign workers or watchers at the polls, and it is virtually impossible to prove that such employment was for corrupt purposes.

The Review-Tribune Offers to Its Readers Booklet on Manners

Do not make a false impression. The world is a harsh judge and is perfectly willing to condemn us by outward appearances. In the street, at the theatre, in the restaurant every day people are judging us by what we do and say. They go away carrying an impression of us—and it depends upon our manners whether it is a good impression or a bad impression.

That is why it is important to give attention to the little courtesies, observances and social formalities that bespeak the true lady and gentleman, and make the world a better place to live in.

The etiquette booklet offered by our Washington Bureau tells in a simple, direct way how to meet the every day problems of social conduct. Enclose six cents in stamps for your copy.

Toronto.

Dear Sirs:

Under separate cover we are forwarding the official Certificate of Performance of the test conducted by the Association of the detoning qualities of 11 motor fuels sold in Canada. BLUE Sunoco was equalled by only one knock proof quality by (4) per gallon. The other four extra-priced fuels tested, as well as three of the premium priced fuels in anti-knock class.

This is an excellent showing. An interesting feature of the test was that it was so simple that it might be duplicated with facility at any place by any motor owner at relatively very little expense.

Yours very faithfully,
CANADIAN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION
W. Hastings/JW
Manager of Tests & Contests.

The above test confirms the similar non-detonating test made earlier by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association which proved that of 15 leading motor fuels tested only 4—all selling at 3 to 5 cents more than BLUE Sunoco—were in a class with it.

BLUE SUNOCO is a pure, all-petroleum product, non-poisonous and harmless. Its unexcelled quality is obtained by careful and scientific methods of manufacture rather than by the addition of foreign substances.

TWO INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR WELLSVILLE

CAR UPSETS AFTER PLOWING INTO HILLSIDE

Mrs. Edward Kemp and Baby, Kountz Avenue, Hurt.

GO TO HOSPITAL

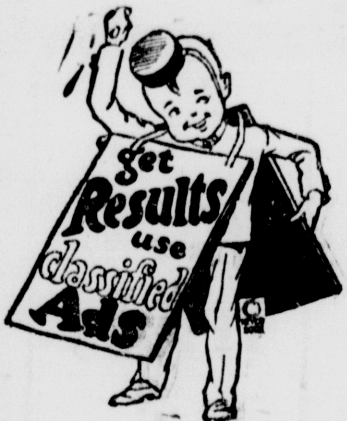

Husband Escapes in Accident on Dirt Highway.

Mrs. Edward Kemp and her three-month-old baby daughter, of Kountz avenue, are patients in the East Liverpool hospital today as a result of injuries sustained yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the Maxwell roadster in which they were riding, driven by Kemp, plowed backward into a hillside near the Campground road and turned over.

Dr. J. M. King, of Wellsville, who was called immediately after the accident, today said neither mother nor baby were injured seriously. The child, according to reports, was badly bruised and the mother was cut and shaken up.

Kemp and his family, in the roadster, started up a dirt road, off the Wellsville-East Liverpool road, near the Campground hill. The machine was part way up, near the Walker school, when the motor stalled.

On the steep road the brakes failed to hold the car and it backed down the declivity. As it gathered speed, Kemp was forced to turn it into the bank alongside the road and it toppled over. Kemp was unhurt.

INFANTILE paralysis appeared in the castle inhabited by five-year-old King Michael of Rumania. Immediately the king was carried away to the Carpathian Mountains.

That unfortunately does not mean safety for the baby king. Nobody knows how infantile paralysis comes, what causes it, or how it is implanted in the blood of its victim.

INFANTILE paralysis should interest government, national, state and municipal, more than it seems to do. There are 4,000 cases in the United States now. Nobody knows how the disease starts and spreads. The disease breaks out, nobody knows how or why, in dark city streets, and in distant sunlit beautiful valleys, more than thousands of miles from either ocean, and five thousand feet above them.

SUCH a mysterious disease among swine or cattle would be investigated and fought by the government energetically.

The Rockefeller Institute is doing admirable work, but a nation of 115,000,000 should not leave such a fight to the generosity of one man.

WHAT is America as regards its people, what is it destined to be?

Indians were here first, Columbus came, then the Pilgrim Fathers, determined to worship God as they pleased and to make everybody else worship Him as they pleased. They would not recognize today's population. The city of Chicago contains 450,000 Germans, 400,000 Poles, 300,000 Jews, 300,000 Irish, 200,000 Italians, 200,000 Bohemians and Czechs-Slovaks, 125,000 Swedes, 50,000 Norwegians, and 50,000 Greeks. Not exactly what you would call "pure Nordic."

What type, what civilization will come out of that mixture?

Grayson Fails

"Dawn" was almost skimming the water. The wind was from the south-southwest quarter, just the wind Mrs. Grayson had been waiting for to aid in lifting the heavy load of between eleven and twelve thousand pounds.

"The Dawn" was so close to the water in coming toward the beach that Pilot Stultz found he could not make a landing without digging the nose in to the sand, so that he skillfully made a landing on the water. The cabin was sprayed by the waves.

Undaunted, Mrs. Grayson ordered another supply of gasoline, for part of the supply on "The Dawn" had been dumped by Navigator Goldsborough.

This was the second false start of "The Dawn." Last Monday she was "down by the nose" with gasoline in the forward tanks and had to return in less than a quarter of an hour after the take-off. The load was equalized, and then followed a long wait for a favorable southwest wind.

May Defer Another Take-off. Igor Sikorsky, builder of the plane, and other aviation experts here went into conference to devise some way of getting the plane into the air. One plan was to reduce the gasoline supply. This would permit only a flight to England. Mrs. Grayson said she would be satisfied if she could span the ocean, refuel, and proceed to Copenhagen. Another take off between 5 and 6 p. m., was under discussion.

Finally it was decided that unless conditions were absolutely perfect late today another take-off would be deferred until 7 a. m., Sunday.

Pilot Stultz balked at an evening take-off because he said it would mean two nights over the water. Every indication was "The Dawn" would not attempt to leave again until Sunday morning.

Stultz in safely bringing "The Dawn" back to the beach displayed unusual aviation skill. Stultz said:

"We traveled about 20 miles. At times were only six inches above the water. At no time were we more than thirty feet up. We were running about one hundred and twenty-five miles an hour. I would not slow her for fear of hitting the water nose on. He had to dump 260 gallons of gasoline to lighten her load. Several times we thought we were going to crash, but I finally got her back. When we take off again we will go back to our original load of 850 gallons of gasoline. We will probably start again Sunday morning, for what we want now is a little headwind off shore to give us a lift in sending the plane into the air."

Sao Paulo, Brazil, has started to straighten and canalize the Tiete river so as to reclaim an area of 10 square miles frequently flooded, the entire project to be paid for by selling the land thus improved.

OPEN TORONTO ROAD SOON

New Thoroughfare to be Used by Traffic This Winter.

Given fair weather, the Toronto River road will be open to the public the latter part of November. If weather continues inclement, it is possible that the road will remain closed the early part of the winter, or until the weather permits further work.

Two days of paving on 1,000 feet are necessary before the road is completed, the state highway department today announced. The sides of the road are also awaiting completion.

The recent rain has made the road a bed of mud, and it will take several days of clear, mild weather to dry the strip of ground sufficiently to enable the contractor to go ahead with the paving.

After the paving is completed, the road will remain closed for 21 or 22 days to allow it to dry completely before it is opened for traffic.

The state highway department's work on other roads through the county has also been delayed by the weather. Two truckloads of tar will be laid on the Cadiz road as soon as it is sufficiently dry. Grading of the one-half mile of narrows at Port Homer will also be done next week.

On the two miles of Mingo-Smithfield road from New Alexandria to Smithfield, the state started the work of grading Monday morning. The road will not be paved until next summer.

Rev. J. L. Shaw, former pastor of the United Presbyterian church, of Toronto, now pastor of the Cleveland Whole Gospel tabernacle, will hold services in Fosterville, near Toronto, on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

MUSICAL HIT COMING OCT. 26

Exceptional Cast and Beauty Chorus in "Queen High."

With a musical score rippling with pretty melodies, a compelling and interesting story of romantic delight, an exceptional cast of principals and a beauty chorus, "Queen High," most satisfying of musical comedies comes to the Ceramic theatre Wednesday, Oct. 26.

This delightful entertainment has just concluded a year's run at the Ambassador theatre, New York, where crowded houses of enthusiastic auditors confirmed the verdict of the professional critics that "Queen High" will rival in popularity any musical comedy of twenty years. Twenty-two melodious musical numbers, and numerous comedy scenes are the ingredients that comprise this great musical success.

Laurence Schwab, who produced "The Desert Song" and "Good News," is likewise the sponsor of "Queen High" and in association with B. B. DeSylva is responsible for the book and lyrics, while Lewis E. Gensler has written the song and dance numbers.

Among the popular numbers of "Queen High" are "Cross Your Heart," "Don't Forget," "Everything Will Happen for the Best," "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby," "Who'll Mend a Broken Heart?" "What's Weak About the Weaker Sex?" "Sez You, Sez I," "You'll Never Know" and "In the Spring."

A notable company, the same as that which won great approbation during the long run at the Chestnut Street Opera House in Philadelphia, includes Eddie Garvie, Dave Mallon, Margaret Lee, Gertrude Armfield, Nell Collins, Mary Marilyn, Carrie Glenn, Albert Downing, Danny O'Donnell, Arlyne White, Dorothea Dunn, and many others of recognized cleverness.

OHIO LAWYERS SAID TO OPPOSE MARSHALL BILL

Bar Association President Outlines Attitude.

HITS FEE PLAN

Names Committee to Draft Salary System for Justices.

COSCHOCTON, O., Oct. 22.—Though the Ohio State Bar association is taking no active part in the referendum on the Marshall bill, as an organization, leading members of the association are opposed to the bill, it became known here today when C. B. Hunt, president of the association, in a letter to the Coschocton Tribune disclosed that a committee had been named to draft a bill providing for a salary system. This proposed bill will be presented to the State Bar association at its January meeting at Columbus, according to Hunt's letter.

The committee named to draft the proposed bill includes: James A. White, chairman, Columbus; Judge L. G. Worstell, Athens; W. L. Hart, Alliance; and W. E. Teegarden, Greenville.

Attorney Hunt's letter to the Tribune read in part:

"The matter of reform in the procedure of justice courts has been considered by our association for two years. At the annual meeting last July President McCabe appointed a special committee to prepare a bill providing for the districting of counties for election of justices of the peace and for a salary system in place of fees.

"Our association as an organization is taking no part in the controversy about the Marshall bill, but we are anxious to change the fee system to a salary system, which the present law fails to do. The committee will report to the midwinter sessions."

CHINESE ATTACK BRITISH WARSHIP

HONGKONG, Oct. 22.—Further conflict between British naval forces and Chinese armed bands occurred today when the warship Curlew was object of a rifle and machine gun attack from the shore, 41 miles above Wuhu.

The Curlew retaliated by firing her whole battery upon the attackers. Later two Chinese gunboats fired upon the attackers of the Curlew.

was slightly damaged by smoke and water.

Equid estimated the damage to his stock and fixtures at $1,500, on which he carried $1,300 insurance. The loss to the Sons of Italy was placed at $3,500, partly covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered by a Crutcher mill man on his way home from work.

DEM OUTLINES TAX CUT PLAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Democratic program for tax reduction will exceed $100,000,000, Representative Collier (D.), of Mississippi, a member of the house ways and means committee which will initiate the tax revision bill, asserted here today.

Reduction in corporation taxes and abolition of many "nuisance" taxes were predicted by Collier.

Although flood relief legislation must take precedence over everything else, the financing of this program will not halt tax reduction, he asserted.

MAY DRAFT CAL, KANSAN SAYS

Ex-Governor Allen Says Coolidge Should be Nominated.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Henry J. Allen, ex-governor of Kansas, still believes that "President Coolidge will be drafted for the nomination next year unless he does something about it."

He made this statement at the White House today in face of the president's recent verbal lashing of Senator Fess (R) of Ohio and others who have refused to accept as final Mr. Coolidge's "do not choose to run" announcement.

"I am equally guilty with Senator Fess in believing that the president should be nominated," said Allen.

Negro Slayer Goes to Death House. DAYTON, Oct. 22.—Roy Freeman, negro, under death sentence for slaying Policeman William C. Horn here, was to be taken today to the Ohio penitentiary to await his execution, Dec. 30.

getting lies the secret of a successful home. She also believes that every home should be run like a business, with a scheduled time for the various duties but that common sense should be applied to any such schedule, and when an emergency comes along the housekeeper ought to be able to shift her schedule to the happiness and convenience of all concerned.

Mrs. Lewers carries with her an assistant who is a capable right hand "man." To her assistant, according to Mrs. Lewers, goes a great deal of credit for the success of the school, for she helps Mrs. Lewers in the demonstrations and is herself an excellent cook.

No set program has been announced for each meeting, for Mrs. Lewers will have new and interesting subjects to discuss each day and will introduce many ideas which she has learned not only in professional training schools but from the women all over this country in the cities in which she has previously conducted schools.

Users will be present to see that the patrons of the school are seated and well taken care of each day of the school.

The doors will be open at 1 o'clock every day and the first comers will be the lucky ones to get the front row seats.

EARL CARROLL, PAROLED, BACK IN HOME CITY

Producer, in Bed, When Train Stops in Washington.

GOES TO THEATRE

Crowd of 100 at Station, But no Demonstration.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Back to the city he left four months ago as a prisoner of the federal government, Earl Carroll, the theatrical producer, arrived home shortly before noon today.

Quiet, reserved and occupied with the sole thought of "putting myself right with Broadway," the producer stepped from the train as it pulled into the Pennsylvania station, and headed straight for his theatre, where the famous "wine bath party" which caused his commitment to prison on a perjury was staged.

"It's good to be back," Carroll said as he left the train. "I'm going right to my theatre. I want to see if everything's the same."

A crowd of 100 persons had gathered at the platform to catch a glimpse of Carroll as the train pulled in, but there was no demonstration.

Carroll said that he would go to the home of his sister, Mrs. Alice Snyder, after he had paid his visit to the theatre.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Bound for Broadway and the White Lights again, Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, just released from Atlanta prison, passed through the capital early this morning.

Carroll's train stopped in Washington for barely a few minutes to allow a change of engines. The producer was in bed. A handful of newspaper reporters constituted the only well-comers to the capital.

EN ROUTE WITH EARL CARROLL, BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 22.—Earl Carroll, speeding toward Broadway and a "come back" from prison life, today displayed for the first time since he emerged from the prison gates Thursday night a zest for life and work and a cheerfulness that had been lacking in his grave, shy demeanor.

Greetings Day in Pajamas.

He awakened at dawn with the habit of prison routine still upon him. He greeted the day in a suit of flaming purple pajamas, quite a contrast to the blue denim he had worn in Atlanta as convict 24909. He talked in a strain that differed from his prison conversation, as if his philosophy is ripening with reflection.

"In prison," Carroll said, after a hearty breakfast, "there is work and companionship and men's interests. I found them all. But it strikes me that the true horror of prison life lies in the fact that there are no women in that world."

"I don't mean women from the viewpoint of sex but from the point of beauty and tenderness. I mean the color that women give to life and that is reflected in the stores and shops of our cities, gleaming with articles for women's joy and adornment."

FOUR KIDNAPED BY MOROCCANS

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Yves Steeg, nephew of the French governor general of Morocco, and his wife had M. Jebb Maillet and Mme. Maillet have been kidnapped by rebels or bandits 125 miles southwest of Casablanca and it is believed that they are being held for ransom, said a dispatch printed by Le Temps today. The kidnapping took place in the forest of Douara. The automobile was found deserted. Nearby were two of their hunting dogs dead from mutilation with knives.

Cleveland Man Slashes Throat. CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—Several friends of David Meyerowitz, 48, were shocked when they received notes from him declaring, "while you are reading these lines the writer of same is lying dead at room 119, Doan Brooke hotel." Meyerowitz was found in the hotel with his wrists and throat slashed, but the would-be-suicide was rushed to a hospital and is expected to recover.

Herrick May Quit

Pepper Possible Candidate. Another possible candidate is George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, who retired from the senate following his defeat in the Pennsylvania primary. Pepper, who was supported politically by the Mellon organization in Pennsylvania, also is considered "available."

The French post is considered a particularly difficult one at this time owing to the numerous important problems confronting the two governments. The question of the French war debt settlement, as yet unsettled by the French parliament, is by itself a problem of monumental proportions. There is also the tariff dispute which will require extended negotiation before yielding to settlement. There are collateral problems of sufficient number and importance to make the Paris post a live one for the next few years.

Herrick Off for Virginia. CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—Ambassador Myron T. Herrick left Cleveland at noon today, bound for Hot Springs, Virginia, where he intends to remain one month, following which he plans to go to Washington. He expects to resume his post in Paris around the first of the year, he declared, and denied that he contemplated relinquishing his diplomatic duties in the immediate future.

Obviously weak, Herrick was nevertheless, optimistic.

30 HURT WHEN TRAINS CRASH

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Thirty persons were injured, six seriously, when a southbound ten car express crashed into a standing train at the Two Hundred and Seventh street station of the Broadway-Seventh Avenue L. R. T. subway during the rush hour today.

The two rear cars of the standing train were telescoped. Most of the injured passengers were in these. Both trains were fully loaded.

HINT NEW FARM RELIEF BILLS

Agricultural Legislation Overshadows Tax Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Agricultural relief legislation today overshadowed even tax reduction as the major problem under consideration in administration as well as in congressional circles.

While the insurgent bloc on Capitol Hill studied various plans in the hope of drafting a new farm bill, President Coolidge and his cabinet advisers were reported to be giving the subject constant consideration. The outcome probably will be the introduction of at least two new farm bills as soon as congress convenes.

The president was said to be giving more time to consideration of the farm problem than to any other subject at this time. His advisers are compiling data on which the administration may base a new bill. It was said the president feels the necessity of agriculture legislation and that he is now willing to go much further to provide relief than he was a year ago. He is still opposed to the equalization fee on constitutional grounds.

HEWITT MUST DIE, OHIO COURT SAYS

JEFFERSON, O., Oct. 22.—Floyd Hewitt, Conneaut youth, convicted of the murder of Fred Brown, Jr., at North Conneaut, last February, must die in the electric chair November 25. The court of appeals so decreed in a decision handed down here today which upheld Hewitt's conviction.

Mrs. Fred Brown and her little son, Fred, were slain following an argument between Mrs. Brown and Hewitt, who later declared he was "crazed" by radio music in the living room where he had been a frequent visitor.

Hewitt is now in "death row" at Columbus penitentiary.

CHILE DEPORTS 18 PLOT SUSPECTS

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 22.—The Chilean government has deported 18 prominent citizens including former President Alessandri, according to advices received here today. It is understood that the deportations followed discovery of an alleged plot for a coup d'etat.

The list of those who are understood to be leaving Chile today includes not only former President Alessandri but his four sons, Jorge Matta Gormaz, former foreign minister, and numerous other former cabinet members.

One woman, Amanda Laboroa Hurtado, is understood to be among the deportees.

Traction Car Kills Merchant. COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—Funeral arrangements were being made here today for Frank Hoffman, Columbus merchant, who was ground to death between the wheels of a trailer attached to a Sciotto Valley traction car in Lancaster, when he fell from the steps of the car as it was preparing to stop.

Three Injured in Auto Crash. COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—Joseph D. Brown, Columbus patrolman, was seriously injured, and two youths giving the names of Clyde Stone and Edward Graham, both of Columbus, were less seriously injured, when the patrolman's car collided with one occupied by the youths here early today.

PRINCE CAROL AND CHARMER IN NEW CHATEAU

Roumanian and Magda Helene Lupescu Deny Break

REST NEAR PARIS

Berlin, Vienna and Bucharest Rumors "Rot," he Says.

BY WILLIAM P. CARNEY. (Copyright 1927 by W. P. C.)

PARIS, Oct. 22.—While wild rumors from Berlin, Vienna and Bucharest circulated today, claiming that former Crown Prince Carol, of Roumania, had deserted Magda Helene Lupescu, his beautiful red-haired companion, Carol and Magda were spending a quiet day at the former's newly purchased chateau 109 miles from this city.

The report that Carol was on his way back to Roumania was proved untrue when it was learned that the former crown prince and his charmer were at the chateau.

"It is all a lot of rot," exclaimed Carol when told of the rumors that have been in circulation in Berlin, Vienna and Bucharest for the past week.

"This is not the first time that my earnest efforts to have privacy caused various rumors of my whereabouts to be spread abroad."

Political Difficulties Reported. BERLIN, Oct. 22.—New rumors of political difficulties in Roumania have reached here.

The latest is that Queen Marie and Premier Bratianu are in open conflict. The gossip is that Queen Marie threatened that unless given a dominant place in the regency she would meet Prince Carol at the country place of her son-in-law, the king of Yugoslavia, and effect a full reconciliation with Carol and aid him in an attempt to return to Roumania.

Premier Bratianu is said to have answered this threat with a counter-threat to wipe out the present Roumanian dynasty and establish a republic.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A new seven-point drop in Houston Oil and a decline in General Motors and U. S. Steel to the lowest price levels of the movement at the beginning of trading today, proved conclusively that Friday's violent closing reaction had not removed all the "weak spots" from the stock market.

A deluge of selling orders awaited the opening of the short session of the market today, and, after recording losses of a point or more, a number of the speculative favorites dipped to a lower range of prices. The effect of Houston's surprisingly poor earnings statement for the third quarter had apparently not passed off, and it required only a small volume of offerings to send the stock tumbling to 144, for a new loss of seven points, and a total decline of 23 points in about one hour's trading, including Friday's closing debacle.

General Motors at 125 1/2, in the first period today, showed a new loss of 23 points from the previous close and 7 points from yesterday's high. U. S. Steel, Dupont, General Electric and other star performers, through breaking through their former "resistance points" recorded losses of only about a point for the period. The rails and specialties displayed a much stronger tone. Western Maryland, New Haven and other speculative railroad shares moving upward a point or two. Dodge Brothers preferred continued its strong recovery, moving up to above 63 against yesterday's low at 57.

LISBON

COURT GRANTS
TWO DIVORCES

Decrees Handed Down
Here Yesterday by Judge W. F. Lones.

After a decree of divorce had been granted Fern Veigel from her husband, Carl W. Veigel, on the grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty, the court awarded the custody of the child to the plaintiff for nine months and the father custody of the child for three months during the year, but during the summer vacation period.

"Tell me a Story"

"Which way do I go to get to the Grocery store?" Little Buddy asked one of the Big Boys.

This Big Boy was not the best person in the world to ask. He liked to 'tease' in a way that wasn't always kind.

"Well," he said, "first you go two blocks this way, and then turn and go up the hill."

Now Buddy was little, but he really 'used his head' a good share of the time. He had been to the store with his Mother, but never alone.

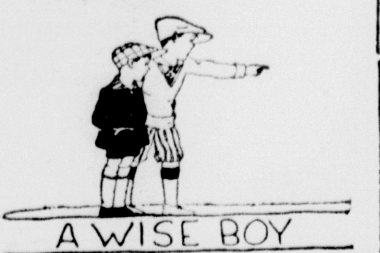

So he started off the way the Big Boy told him. Then he stopped to think.

"He didn't tell me right, at all," Buddy said to himself. "It's only one block this way, and two up the hill."

There he found the Grocery store.

"I'll never ask that boy any thing again. I'll ask myself instead."

The simple believeth every word, but the prudent man looketh well to his going.—Prov. 14:15.

Need for Modern Prophets

General Lesson Title—The Call of the Prophet.

Scripture Lesson—1 Kings 19, 19, 20, Amos 7, 10-15; Isa. 6, 1-8 (1 Kings 19, 19, 20; Amos 7, 14, 15; Isa. 6, 1-8 Printed.)

1 Kings 19, 19, 20.

19 So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing, with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth; and Elijah passed over unto him, and cast his mantle upon him.

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said, Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, and then I will follow thee. And he said unto him, Go back again; for what have I done to thee?

Amos 7, 14, 15.

14 Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son; but I was a herdsman, and a dresser of sycamore trees:

Isa. 6, 1-8.

1 In the year that king Uzziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up; and his train filled the temple.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

When St. John, who was still in prison, heard of the miracles of Christ, he sent his disciples to Him, asking, "Art thou He that cometh, or look we for another?"

And they went to Jesus saying, "John the Baptist hath sent us unto thee asking, Art thou He that cometh, or look we for another? In that hour He cured man of disease and plagues and evil spirits and on many that were blind He restored sight."

And He answered, "Go and tell John, the things that ye have seen and heard; the blind receive their sight, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are risen up, the poor have good tidings preached to them."

BROOKE COUNTY ROADWORK COST

County Engineer McGraw Reports Expenditures of $95,000.

Road construction and improvements in Brooke county for 1927 cost taxpayers approximately $55,000, while maintenance of county roads will cost $19,000, according to figures released yesterday by County Engineer Harry McGraw.

Engineer McGraw stated that the 1927 road construction program would be completed on October 25 with the completion of the 1 mile of a concrete shoulder with a 12 foot asphaltic resurfacing on the Eldersville road out of Follansbee, which is being constructed by Contractor Martin W. Fahay, of Wheeling.

In the maintenance of the county roads in 1927, the maintenance fund was divided into two funds, one of $15,000 used for the maintenance of dirt roads and $25,000 used in the upkeep of improved roads. Maintenance of the county roads in 1927 cost the county more money than in any previous year, so engineer McGraw said today, caused by an open winter and spring when roads throughout the district were covered with slides and debris. Never in history do records reveal as hard a winter as 1927 was on roads.

In event of a good winter and the cost of maintenance of the county roads in 1928 being in excess of the past year, the road construction program will be much larger, according to Engineer McGraw who further states that a much larger building program is to be outlined.

The immunization work is being conducted by county agricultural department attaches under the direction of Farm Agent Gist.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

FALL, HEALTH SHATTERED, SEEMS PATHETIC FIGURE AT OIL TRIAL

B. Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Ex-Judge, ex-Senator and ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall was picked, from the start, to do the job of a fall here, with Harry F. Sinclair, on a charge of conspiracy against the government in the matter of the Teapot Dome oil properties.

That is to say, they were supposed to be oil properties.

Subsequent expert investigation is said to have revealed that there is not much oil about them. However, the original impression was that they were rich in it.

At any rate, Fall and Sinclair are in just as much trouble over them as if they were spouting it by the thousands of barrelsful.

Fall in Poor Health.

That Fall would be the pathetic old man of the combination was evident from the moment the first juror was put into the box.

The role is one for which Sinclair is poorly adapted. He appears vigorous, bears all the marks of good living, and looks the hard-boiled capitalist, every inch of him. If a doubt existed, at any stage of the game, that

MISSION WORKER TO FILL PULPIT

Miss Glennie Simms, returned missionary from China, will speak tomorrow morning, afternoon and evening in the First Nazarene church. Miss M. Jessie White, district president, will preside at the meetings.

he is no object to inspire sympathy in a jury's bosom, wasn't it dispelled by the jury which convicted him of contempt of court a few months ago?

Fall, however, makes a pretty fair "poor old man."

He's genuinely old. He's been sick—probably the real thing, considering the situation in which he finds himself—for a year or two, is as thin as a rail, and sits slumped down in his chair, looking discouraged and dejected, with his long, lean, bony, weather-beaten face, his sparse white hair, his snowy raven's wing mustache, of bygone frontier cut, and his brooding expression.

Not Called at First.

Edward L. Doheny, who was acquitted, with Fall, on a criminal charge in connection with the Elk Hills oil case, nearly a year ago, was perhaps even more pitiable than Fall.

He not only looked older and feebler than Fall then, but he had his arm in a sling, due to an infection.

Doheny took the witness stand in person and told a hang-up story for the defense's purpose. He made himself and Fall out two typical old "partners" of the sure-enough wild west days, and it not only was mighty interesting—full of yarns about "diamond hitches," hash-slinging in mining camp restaurants, rattlesnake mule-skinning and all that kind of thing—but appealing as well.

Fall was not called to the witness stand.

The legal outfit including some interesting personalities also.

Major Peyton Gordon, the district attorney, defers a great deal to the government's special counsel, as well he may, for aren't they the great Philadelphian luminary, Owen J. Roberts, and Atlee Pomerene, ex-senator from Ohio, prominently mentioned on various occasions as a Democratic possibility for as exalted an office as president?

Imposing Legal Array.

Pomerene always was distinguished as the solemnest-visaged individual in the senate, and he lives up to it in the court room.

Roberts has a trick of elevating his eyebrows, lowering his eyelids, and screwing his mouth down at the corners, into an expression of contempt for the opposition that breaks all records.

George C. Chandler, Robert's assistant, undoubtedly knows more about the government's side of the oil cases than anybody living.

Martin W. Littleton, to all intents and purposes, is chief of the defense's battery. George P. Hoover helps him, and Fall has his own independent team—William S. Leahy of Washington and Mark B. Thompson of New Mexico.

Littleton is a bulky, formidable appearing character, but, for all that, his client, Sinclair, was convicted and sentenced to three months in jail when they tried him for contempt of court, whereas Frank J. Moran, who did the lion's share of the fighting for Doheny, got his man, and Fall, off seat-free.

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, who presides, is an Englishman by birth, but has lived here nearly all his life.

Nearly half of the automobiles in Rumania are from America.

He Smokes Ecraite Cigars.

Smoking long cigars with an ecraite cigarette in each is the feat of a young athlete at Baden, Austria. When he believes that the explosion is about to take place he holds the stump between his teeth and lets the "big bang" proceed. The youth has schooled himself to keep his head perfectly still and avoid a recoil by stiffening the muscles of his neck. He says that if an ordinary man smoked an ecraite cigar, the recoil would almost throw his head off, but he has so trained his muscles that he will permit anyone to hold a sharp-pointed instrument close to the nape of his neck when the explosion takes place.

That London will have a population of 20,000,000 in the year 2000, is a recent prediction of statisticians.

with ease to car and comfort to passengers.

Your Essex gives you 50 miles an hour all day long. Far greater speed if you want it. Brilliant activity in pick-up and hill climbing. More than 2½ times the power its motor size ordinarily rates it. Long life and enduring character to all its abilities and quality.

It is exclusive performance because Essex Super-Six design is exclusive. And because every part of motor and chassis is engineered to true balance with every other part.

This unity construction goes beyond Essex performance to Essex comfort, appearance and economy. Thus its compactness gives 15% more passenger room. Its riding ease is indifferent to pace and road conditions, and is not excelled by any car regardless of size or price. Its controls are so simple and instinctive you are scarcely conscious of them.

And its economy includes not only unusual gasoline, oil and tire mileage, but astonishingly low maintenance.

During the year Essex has outsold any other "Six" at or near the price, almost two to one, and we believe a single ride will fully reveal the reason.

ROCK SPRINGS DANCE SEASON OPENS OCT. 29

Ross Church's Century
Kings Play Over Next Week-end.

HALLOWE'EN FETE

Virginia Gardens is Remodeled and Redecorated.

Virginia Gardens, Rock Springs park ball room, was being placed in readiness today for the fall and winter dancing season, which will open
Saturday, October 29.

Ross J. Church and his Century
Kings, one of the leading dance orchestras of the country, has been booked for the opening event. This orchestra will also play for the Hallowe'en dance, which will be held on Monday evening, October 31. This dance will take the form of a masquerade and confetti carnival in which prizes will be awarded.

The dance hall is being remodeled for the season. A new roof of green and red adds much to the exterior appearance of the building. The orchestra pit, which formerly was located in the center of the floor, has been moved to the north side of the building, which not only adds to the appearance but permits the orchestra to face the dancers.

Color changes in the ball room decorations are from the light gray and lavender of summer to the dark shades of maroon and brown for the fall and winter. Changing colors of autumn leaves have been placed in the arbors. The floor has been refinished and waxed. New lighting effects have been installed.

Books High Class Orchestra.
Manager C. C. MacDonald of the park has announced the engagement of high class orchestras. Among those booked, other than Ross J.
Church and his Century Kings, are Dan Gregory and his Victor Recording orchestra, the United States
Steamer Levathan's original orchestra under the leadership of Ferdinand LeJume; the West Point Cadets with Bruce Howell and several Chicago bands from the Music Corporation of America. The Century Kings are being booked through Capital Attractions, Inc., of Harrisburg, Pa.

Saturday night and holiday dances will be the rule for the early part of the season although Tuesday night dances may be held later in the season.

Two big indoor circuses will be held during the winter season if plans which are now being considered by local organizations materialize. The hall is also available for banquets, cotventions, and other gatherings.

A new parking field has been provided at the Indiana avenue entrance to the park, new walks having been built and additional lighting facilities provided. At the main entrance a heated waiting room will be provided for those who ride the street cars.

Plans Sandwich Shop.

The large building at the main entrance is being remodeled for a barbecue and sandwich shop. The structure, 30x60 feet, will be enclosed with glass. A new floor is being laid. Refreshment tables will be placed around the sides, with a dance floor in the center. This place will be open from 9 a. m. to 2 a. m. daily. Arrangements have been made to pipe the water from the spring into the building.

The park lake will be available for ice skating during the winter. The lake will be well lighted and sheds erected for skaters. A nominal charge of 10 cents to meet the cost of the lights and fuel will be made to all skaters by the park management.

Manager MacDonald is also planning changes to the swimming pool before the 1928 picnic season opens.
The bath house is also to be rebuilt and several new amusement features added.

Chapter XXXIX.
For a minute it seemed to Sally that she must be dreaming. She stood there, rooted to the spot, wondering why Beau was packing a suitcase in the middle of the night.

Where was he going? . . . Why was he getting ready to leave the house like a thief in the night?

Like a flash the answer wrote itself across Sally's quick brain: "Money!—It's because of money!" She knew Beau and his great weakness.

Then, like a flash she was in the room, bending over him. At her light touch on his shoulder he jumped as if he had been shot, and turned quickly.

Her whisper was hardly more than a quick breath: "Come here!"

Without a sound she was out of the bedroom, across the hall and the dark living room. She could hear him padding close behind her as she groped for the switch in the living room to turn on the lights.

They flashed up, and she faced Beau tensely. Her lips opened stiffly, not to ask a question, but to state a fact.

"Beau, you've taken some more money. . . . Tell me how much." It seemed to her that she had known for weeks that this would happen.

She was not like a girl of 20 in that moment. She was a woman—with a woman's knowledge looking out of her blue eyes with their heavy shading of lashes.

But Beau wouldn't meet her look. His eyes went from one corner of the room to the other—from the floor to the ceiling. Finally he just flicked her with that shifty gaze of his.

"What do you mean, more money?" he asked bitterly. "When did I ever take any money?"

"Why, those bad checks you gave Ted Sloan," replied Sally, wondering how he could forget them, when she had only begun to pay them off for him.

"Oh, those!" His voice was sulky. "Aren't you ever going to get through, throwing those up to me. They were nothing—I'd have paid them off myself if you hadn't butted in."

For a minute Sally was speechless with surprise.

Then she began to understand him—that he would never take the blame for anything not even in his own thoughts.

Just as Mrs. Jerome preferred to think that her husband had left her because of another woman, instead of admitting that it was because he couldn't live the way she wanted to live—with unmade beds, hot-or-miss meals taken from cans or delicatessens, dust and untidiness.

"What's the trouble now, Beau?" Sally asked gently. "Please tell me—I'll try not to butt in, as you call it, this time. But maybe I can help."

She could see that he was in desperate trouble about something. He was like a hunted animal in his terror—afraid, almost, to tell his own sister what he had done.

He stood still for a minute, picking at his fingers nervously, looking around the cozy, familiar room as if it were some place that he never had been before. Then suddenly he turned as if he were going to leave it.

But, just as suddenly, he swung back to Sally, and began to tell her what was wrong.

"I've taken some money, see?" he asked, and his voice was low and hoarse. "From the bank where I work. I've just taken it. Get that through your head. Stolen it is what I mean."

Then he looked squarely at her with his light-blue eyes, and there was defiance in his face.

"It's sure to be found out, and they'll come here for me—and that's why I'm going now. I'm not going to be arrested, and ruin Mabel's life for her. She's the one I'm thinking about—Mabel!" His voice broke on his small wife's name.

By the time he had finished speaking, Sally was ready with her answer. "But, Beau, it isn't going to help matters for you to run away. It's going to make them all the worse."

Beau stared at her. He shook his handsome blond head dully, and, as Sally looked at it, she wondered how so handsome a head could hold so many dishonest impulses as Beau had.

"What you've got to do," said Sally, thinking quickly and sharply, "is to stay right here and put back the money you've taken. How much was it, and how did you manage to get away with it?"

Beau's lips curled. "I don't trust you or anybody enough to give myself away to them," he said. "I won't tell you how I got the money—but what I did was one grand."

"One grand? How much is that?" "A thousand dollars," explained Beau. "And it's all gone. I played the ponies with it—and lost it all, as usual." His bitterness was in his voice and face. "I always lose. I never get any kind of a lucky break."

"A thousand dollars," said Sally to herself. Her earnings for a whole year! The mere thought of it was paralyzing.

For two or three minutes she could not think of a thing to say. She stood looking intently into Beau's blank face. And he looked back at her, with his lips hanging loosely and his shoulders sagging.

"Well!" she said at last. "We'll have to get the money from somewhere. Won't we, Beau? And then you'll have to put it back and quit the job at the bank. It's no place for you to work."

"I'll say it isn't," Beau answered. "When I see all the jack lying around, and then think how Mabel wants a new dress and how I haven't got a single shirt with whole cuffs, I go kind of nutty. I guess—"

"You wouldn't have to have ragged cuffs if Mabel would mend them up once in a while!" Sally spoke sharply, for she was out of patience with Mabel. "And you know you can't afford that car of yours!"

Beau shrugged his shoulders and looked ugly. "Well, don't rub it in! Don't kick a guy when he's down," he growled ungratefully. "Where are you going to get that grand for me?"

"Aunt Emily," Sally told him. "If she has it, she'll lend it to me. I'm going to start working for her pretty soon, and I can pay it back to her if she'll just give me enough time."

Beau looked brighter. He knew that, somehow or other, his women-folk would save him. They always had.

"Goodnight," he said briefly, and went to bed.

Sally tiptoed back to her own bed. But she could not sleep. She lay awake, listening for the sound of a board creaking or a suitcase lock snapping. She was afraid that Beau might try to get away after all.

The next morning at 9 o'clock Sally was marching up River road on her way to Aunt Emily's.

The house on River road looked just as it always did, facing the eastern skies, and catching the pale autumn sunshine on its window panes.

The only difference was that over the gate a wooden sign hung:

"By jinks, she's doing business already!" said Sally to herself with an amused twinkle in her eyes. It was like Aunt Emily to go ahead with her own plans, saying nothing to anybody about them. There was nothing nabby-pabby about Aunt Emily. She stood on her own feet. Only she did not stand. She ran. She galloped ahead.

When Sally rang the doorbell a strange woman answered it. A large, plump, comfortable looking woman with sharp blue eyes, pink cheeks, and a smudge of flour on her apron front.

"Yes, Miss Jerome's here," she said in answer to Sally's question. "She's in the office."

She led Sally into the small room that once had been the linen room of the big old house.

It had nothing in it but a desk and two straight chairs. And on one of the chairs sat Aunt Emily, looking very stiff and prim in a dark blue silk dress.

"Well, if it isn't little Sally!" she exclaimed when her niece stepped into the bright, businesslike little place. And what brings you 'way out here this morning?"

She always struck straight to the heart of things. Sally was like her—direct and quick. "Money," said she. "Aunt Emily, would you lend me a thousand dollars and not ask what I want it for?"

Aunt Emily's fine, firm lips came together with a snap. "I would not!" she declared promptly and forcibly. "because I'd know what you wanted it for. For Mabel—or for Beau! And they've had enough of my money, thank you!"

She got up and brushed the palms of her hands one against the other, as if she were washing her hands of the whole Jerome family.

"Let me show you my dining room," she said, and as she held open the door she deposited a kiss on Sally's velvety flushed cheek. "You know I'd give my niece Sally anything I had, don't you? But the rest of the family have had the last nickel I'll ever give them."

The dining room was a beauty. The chairs and tables in it had been painted soft green and covered with flowered chintz. There were black candlesticks on each table, and they held jade-green candles. The curtains were the softest of white dotted muslin, and on the floor were green-and-white woven rugs.

At any other time Sally would have gone into raptures over the dining room. But this morning nothing could lift the leaden weight on her heart. Nothing could raise the drooping corners of her mouth.

"Aunt Emily, I'm coming to work for you on the first of November, if you still want me," she said. "And I'll pay you back that money, somehow or other, if only you'll let me have it. Beau has got himself into some trouble—"

"I don't care what Beau's got into," Aunt Emily shook her head vigorously. "I made myself poor to give to his father, and to everybody else in the family, and I'm through!" She brought her thin hand down flat and firmly on the edge of the table nearest her to show that she meant what she said. Sally shrugged her shoulders. "Well, where do I go from here?" she asked herself.

Four Choice Tidbits On Grid Menu Today For Midwest Fans

THINK CHICAGO MAY SURPRISE QUAKERS

Michigan Dedicates New Stadium in Scrap With Ohio State; Notre Dame and Indiana Meet in Annual Battle.

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Four Big Ten conference games, revival of the intersectional feud between Chicago and University of Pennsylvania, and the Hoosier state classic involving Notre Dame and Indiana, are the choice tidbits to be cooked up on midwestern gridirons today.

Headliners, of course, are the Chicago-Penn scrap and the Michigan-Ohio State affair at Ann Arbor which features the dedication of Michigan's new million dollar stadium. Vying with them for the midsection spotlight will be following games.

Northwestern-Illinois at Evanston. Minnesota-Iowa at Minneapolis. Indiana-Notre Dame at Bloomington.

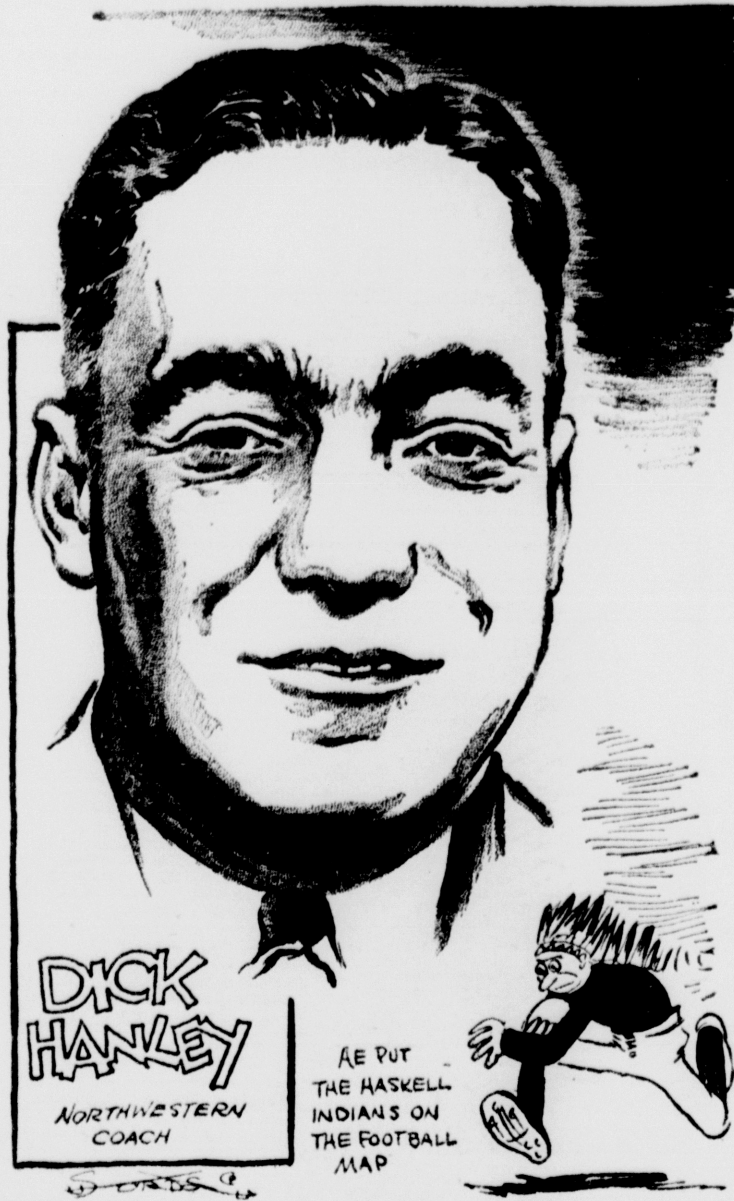

Believe Stagg Has Edge.

For the first time in thirty years, Stagg's university of Chicago gridirons are believed to have a strong playing edge on Pennsylvania. Coach Young's Quakers are badly crippled and have been unable "to get going." Although Stagg has a few stars on the injured list, he has a world of reserve material and is out to score his first victory over his eastern rival.

Michigan is a slight favorite to crush Ohio State, despite a well-founded tradition that new stadiums are invariably dedicated in defeat. The Buckeyes will miss Cory at fullback, otherwise the squad is in its best condition of the year.

Northwestern-Illinois. The Northwestern-Illinois tilt should be one of the toughest battles of the year. Neither team has lost a conference foe. Northwestern with such line-plunging backs as Lewis

NORTHWESTERN 19, Gao State 13

The first victory ever scored by Northwestern over an Ohio State eleven, and the first time the "Purple" was ever able to score a touchdown against the Indians.

That is the result of Dick Hanley's first attempt as coach of Northwestern in a Big Ten game, and his Wild cats will score many more touchdowns before the season is over.

Hanley came to Northwestern last fall from the Haskell Indians when Glen Thistlethwaite was wooed over to Wisconsin. His entire coaching career has been a string of successes.

On leaving Washington State nearly a decade ago, where he was a speedy and crafty quarterback, Hanley coached the Pendleton high school in Oregon to a state championship. From there he went to the Haskell Indians at Lawrence, Kas., where he met with almost unbelievable success.

Little was heard of the Haskell institute before Hanley's arrival, but he soon brought them along until they began to be known in a national way and were considered worthy successors to the famous Carlisle Indians. Their first noteworthy performance was in 1923 when Minnesota was lucky enough to win a 13 to 12 victory.

Two years later they came east and showed Brown the short end of a 17 to 13 score and that was evidence enough that Haskell had arrived. And now with Northwestern his success continues.

80,000 Pour Into New Haven For Annual Yale-Army Clash

2,000 Cadets to be Reviewed by Connecticut Governor, Lending Real Martial Air to Big Spectacle.

By Malcolm Roy.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22.—Like a conquering army pouring in upon a beleaguered town, a host of 80,000 football enthusiasts is marching into this city today for the Army-Yale gridiron clash in the bowl this afternoon.

From all quarters of the compass the crowd is coming and by every means of conveyance—airplane, boat, motor and train. So vast is the stream of automobiles wending its way into the city that officials have almost given up in despair the task of finding parking space for all.

To give the occasion a real martial aspect the cadet corps of the military academy, numbering almost 2,000, is due to arrive here late in the forenoon. They will march from the trains to the historic green where they are to be reviewed by Gov. Trumbull of Connecticut, and Gen. Preston Brown, commander of the first Army Corps area.

Team Well Matched.

Never in the long history of the Army-Navy series of games have the teams appeared more nearly matched than they are on the eve of today's battle. Yale has made a courageous and fighting redemption of its football prestige following the defeat at the hands of Georgia a fortnight ago and is ready to face the Army on even terms with Bruce Caldwell, its wonderful halfback—perhaps the greatest backfield player the blue has had since the days of the immortal Ted Coy—ready to match speed and cunning, daring and strength with the three Army aces, Wilson, Cagle and Murrell.

In prospect the game has all the earmarks of one of the great football contests of the year. Army has a veteran eleven, well drilled by Biff Jones and keyed up to fighting pitch. Its preliminary record is not a glowing one but each game has seen it make positive forward development in spite of a somewhat slow-to-get going atack.

Yale's Big Game. Yale has been pointing towards the Army game if it can be said it pines for any game other than the Princeton and Harvard battles and Tad Jones is confident that the Army will be well aware that the bulldog spirit is not dead at New Haven before the game is many minutes old.

The probable lineup:

Yale.	Pos.	Army.
Scott	L.E.	Harbold
Quarrier	L.T.	Sprague
Green	L.G.	Hammeck
Charlesworth	C.G.	Hall
Webster	R.G.	Seeman
Edley	R.T.	Perry
Fliswick	R.E.	Born
Hoban	Q.	Meehan
Decker	R.H.	Cazle
Caldwell	L.H.	Swilson
Cox or Hubbard	F.B.	Murrell

COLGATE STAR BACK IN LINEUP

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Colgate and Wabash meet in an intersectional game here today. Little was known of the visitors' strength, but the Colgate backfield was strengthened by the return of Duke Shaughnessy, the battering fullback. Both teams held final signal drill before the game.

McLEOD, SPENCER LEAD GOLF FIELD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Freddie McLeod, former national open champion, and Glenn Spencer, Baltimore pro, were tied for the lead today in the middle Atlantic open golf championship as the final 36 holes started over the Indian Spring course here. Each had 116 for the first 36 holes.

Tommy Armour, the present national open champion, trailed four strokes behind at 150. Leo Diegel was still further behind with 154, and Joe Turnesa had collected 158. A field of about 60 pros and amateurs are competing.

Princeton Is Favorite Over Cornell

Tigers to Average 13 Pounds More Weight Per Man.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Eleven stalwarts from Princeton, hailed by football men as a greater team than the championship outfit of 1925, primed for the battle of their lives, will crash headlong into Cornell's Red and White clad athletes at Schoellkopf field this afternoon. The game marks a renewal of football relations after a lapse of 20 years. Cornell and Princeton men fondly hope that this game will mark a new beginning in happy relations that will endure through time.

Princeton is a favorite to win, although Bill Roper professed to see nothing better than a terrific fight for his team with possible victory via field goal. Princeton is heavier by 13 pounds to the man. Old Nassau has a line that averages 192 pounds, and it is a smashing, driving line of rare aggressiveness and power.

There is great elasticity to the Tiger attack and, perhaps, just a little bit more football judgment. There is also the matter of condition, and Keene Fitzpatrick is authority for the statement that the Princeton team is ready.

The charming pessimist of Ithaca, Gilmore Doble, says the situation is hopeless.

"I don't know how to fix the team," said Gil. "Everything I do makes the situation look more hopeless. I'm beaten before I start."

PENN STATERS TO USE PASSES

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Penn State is a slight favorite to defeat Syracuse here today because Capt. Robert of the Orange is out of the game with an injured knee. The locals hope to win by means of forward passes, as they did against Georgetown. Their aerial attack is built around Baysinger, who throws 50-yard passes.

Encouraged by their one-sided victory over Penn last week, the Penn State eleven was confident of crossing the Syracuse goal line at Archbold stadium for the first time in history.

Schedule Dux Series With Steubenville

Liberty Five in Home and Home Matches This Week.

The Liberty Jackpin team will open a home and home series with the Steubenville Academy quint on Tuesday night, with the first match of the series being played on the Steubenville alleys.

The Jefferson countians will appear at the Liberty on Thursday night in a return tilt.

The Liberty squad will consist of Smith, Sayres, Canno, Manypenny, Greene, Howell and Alcock.

Gulf Gas Dux Five Bows to Super-Flash

Canne's 218 Sets New Single Game Record.

A lot of gasoline salesmen were present from their customary places of duty last night as the Super Flash and Gulf Gas teams of the Liberty Business Men's league pounded the dux last night in their first meeting of the season.

With a six-point edge in total score, the Super Flash quint won two out of three from the Gulfers, with Canne shooting a 218 single game score for a new season's record.

The Supers won the first game by a two-pin margin, the count being 618 and 616, but were swamped in the second, 723 to 574. They came back strong in the windup, however, with a count of 760, high for the night, against 625.

Penn Jinx ELKS CONSIDERING To Parade BASKETBALL PLANS In Chicago

Maroons Seek First Win Over Eastern Eleven.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Pennsylvania and Chicago square off at Stagg field today for the third and last game of their three-year contract. The contest rates as the most important intersectional clash of the day's interesting card.

Stagg's Maroons are determined to break a long standing jinx by scoring their first victory over Penn. The easterners won last year, 28 to 0, and in 1925 by 7 to 0. Football relations between the two schools have been in effect, off and on, for the past 30 years, but not once in that time has Chicago scored a victory.

Both teams go into this affair badly crippled. Chicago has a slight advantage here, as the Quakers have more good men on the injured list than the Maroons. Coach Young's machine suffered a hard beating last week at the hands of Penn State and since then has had little time to recoup, owing to rain and muddy fields.

Penn's 1927 squad has been disappointing, whereas Chicago is having its most successful season in many years. Stagg has told his boys they can win today if they play the brand of which they are capable. On the basis of this season's performances, Chicago should win. But tradition favors the Quakers.

The probable starting lineup follows:

Chicago	Pennsylvania
Priess	L. E.
Wolfs	L. G.
Rouse	C.
Heltmann	R. G.
Lewis	R. T.
Spence	R. E.
McDonough	Q.
Anderson	L. H.
Rayson	R. H.
Levers	F. B.

Referee—Milton Ghee (Dartmouth).
Umpire—Tom Thorpe (Columbia).
Field judges—H. B. Hackett (West Point). Head linesman—H. C. Seales (Washington and Jefferson).

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22.—"Vah hee wah" of the Dartmouth Indian rang through this historic university city today as the untested team from New Hampshire came here a ten to eight favorite to win the avowed intention of scalping Johnny Harvard.

It was great football weather and the largest and most colorful assembly of fans ever to watch a game in this section were gathering—nearly 55,000 persons.

Local Court Followers Would Like to See Re-organization of Lodge Quintet; Indians After Game Here Already.

While nothing definite has been done to date in the way of actual plans, preliminary discussion of the city's 1927-28 basketball prospects, aside from high school, apparently favors the re-organization of the Elks' club floor squad as the city's representatives on the independent circuit this winter.

The Elks last year gave Pottery City basketball followers one of the liveliest court seasons they have had for years, in fact since the old professional clubs performed in the Tri-State district.

Entered in the Columbian county amateur league, they were one of the outstanding quints. Losing the first half championship by a one-game margin in a play-off with Damascus, they came back to cop the second half title, but the season's final series for the league championship never materialized when rival managers could not get together on eligibility of players.

However, any disappointment over the failure of the series disappeared in the thrills furnished by the games with Midland which provided a red hot climax to a colorful campaign.

The other day Kid Skelley, manager of the World Famous Indians, who lost a close decision to the Antlers in a game here toward the close of the season, wrote in to Bill Powell, who piloted the local aggregation on the floor, and asked for dates for the present year.

Skelley says the Indians have added a new feature or two to their program this year, including a genuine Indian war dance between halves by Chief Long Time Sleep, the club trainer.

Skelley also says that Jim Thorpe, who played a guard position for the Indians here in the absence of one or two regulars, is having a good football year at Portsmouth, averaging around 75 yards in his punt.

The Indians' booking manager also is obtaining dates for the House of David floor squad, of Benton Harbor, Mich.

HOCKEY LEAGUES WORK TOGETHER

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 22.—American hockey league officials, in session here, decided to adopt rules of the National league this year and to observe all terms of the contract so as to avoid friction between the two leagues.

Kansas City was awarded the franchise given up by Chicago.

Wilcemen Ready For Big Joust

State Lineup is Changed for Michigan Fray.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 22.—Ohio State, with a changed lineup, faced the powerful Michigan aggregation here this afternoon in one of the most important intersectional grid clashes of the Big Ten race.

Alber of Ohio State has been moved from back field to left end in place of Bell; Nesser at right tackle instead of Urdel and Marek in Alber's place back of the line.

The game will furnish the atmosphere for the dedication of Michigan's new stadium, costing $1,125,000 and seating 86,000.

With the exception of Taylor, Michigan right end, the formation was scheduled to be the same as faced Wisconsin. Both teams reported only a negligible injured list. The probable lineups follow:

Michigan	Ohio State
Oosterbaan	L. E.
Palmeroli	L. G.
Boyard	C.
Board	R. G.
Jahel	R. T.
Nyland	R. E.
Hoffman	Q.
Miller	L. H.
Libert	R. H.
Rich	F. B.

Officials—Referee, Masker, Northwestern; umpire, Haines, Yale; field judge, Young, Illinois Wesleyan; head linesman, Huston, Parsons.

AT LOS ANGELES—Johnny Adams, San Bernardino, Cal., welterweight, and Dick Ramies, San Diego, fought ten rounds to a draw.

BERLENBACH

BERLENBACH WILL FIGHT AS LONG AS THEY'LL PAY TO SEE HIM

Now you see me, now you don't. It must be some kind of a game that Paul Berlenbach is playing. At any rate he is on the verge of another one of his "comebacks."

Not so long ago Paul announced to the world that he finally had enough of the game. He had said the same thing once before and now will have to say it again.

It was Jack Delaney who supplied the necessary inspiration to make Berlenbach call it quits the last time when he pummeled Paul for 15 rounds and took the light-heavyweight title away from him.

Berlenbach was then in the throes of a so-called comeback campaign, and although he won a couple of fights, showed that he had very little left. When the news reached Berlenbach that Delaney had jumped the light-heavyweight division in favor of the heavier stuff he threw over his good resolution. Having obtained his release from Dan Hickey, the "assassin" will now be managed by Ben Stern, an old friend and the man who helped Hickey in handling Paul during his march to the throne.

His program calls for a couple of setups for a beginner and then an honest-to-goodness battle on the coast with a man supposed to give him a real test. He comes through this to satisfy himself he will put in a claim for the light-heavy title.

The Way of the World
BY GROVE PATTERSON

GETTING WHAT THEY WANT.
W. J. Bryan used to be fond of saying "the people can have what they want." He was talking about politics and democracy. The people what they want in lines which have nothing to do with politics and democracy. They wanted more silk than there was silk to be had. Cotton wouldn't satisfy. And now the artificial silk industry uses 150,000 tons of wood pulp in one year. The people can have what they want because they can depend on the devotion to knowledge of a few.

RECREATION.

The value of the motion pictures lies in its power to carry us for an hour into an unreal world. For a time we participate in adventures that will never thrill us in reality. That is recreation. It is getting away from the worries and perplexities of the day. Unfortunately some pictures put over a sadly mistaken idea of life. Such pictures are no good. They are misleading to youth, and disgusting to a generation that knows better. But clean, lively, humorous pictures furnish real recreation. For they furnish an easy and legitimate escape from some of the unpleasant realities of life.

UP AND ON.

The year 1900 isn't so long ago. Stanley Homes, Jersey man, was then an apprentice in a shop. Today he is at the head of the second largest telephone shop in the world—the Western Electric plant at Kearney, N. J. Ultimately 20,000 men will work there. Stanley Homes had a chance. Today's office boy has a chance. You have a chance. We all have a chance. That's the big thing about this democracy of ours. We have a chance. What are we going to do with it?

JUST DIRT.

More than $14,000,000 worth of dirt was sold last year. In other words, nearly 1,000,000 tons of clay were mined and sold by producers in this country. Harper Leech, in the Chicago Tribune, tells the story of clay—clay made into brick and tile and pottery.

It's all dirt—just dirt. Day by day we pass by scores of things that seem worthless. We brush by opportunities without a second look. Just dirt. We don't lack ability, when we once get our hands on something, but we lack imagination to see what a thing MIGHT BE.

There is a story in the common clay that is finally sold for fourteen millions.

PUZZLE.

Puzzles are popular. There is something in man which delights in the intricate and the complex. That's why so few of us are as simple, straightforward and honest as we ought to be. Where did we get this love for going the long way round? Perhaps from our early ancestors who had to be wary. They hadn't developed harmonious relations with other men and they had to be careful.

Arctic Still Unsolved.

Mysteries of the Arctic are still unsolved, declared Dr. R. N. Rudmose Brown, president of the geographical section of the British association while speaking in London recently. He declared that existence of an Arctic continent is still based on circumstantial evidence, that Enderby Land, with more than 3,000 miles of hypothetical coast line, has never been searched for since Biscoe found it in 1831, and that no ship had even penetrated the western shores of the Weddell Sea. He prophesied that eventually the tide of white settlement will definitely set northward, even to the Arctic Seas.
